- Government makes sale of E20 petrol with minimum RON 95 mandatory from April 1.
- The Government of India has issued a notification mandating the nationwide sale of E20 petrol (petrol blended with 20% ethanol) effective from April 1, 2026.
- This directive from the Ministry of Petroleum and Natural Gas requires all oil marketing companies to provide fuel that meets a minimum Research Octane Number (RON) of 95 to protect vehicle engines from damage.
- Mandate Date: The compulsory sale across all states and UTs begins on April 1, 2026.
- Target Advancement: The original deadline for 20% blending was 2030, but the government advanced it to 2025–26 after hitting the 10% target ahead of schedule in June 2022.
- RON 95 Significance: A higher RON indicates better resistance to "knocking" (pre-ignition), which can damage engines. While standard petrol often has a RON of 91, the mandate for 95 ensures stability under high compression for ethanol blends.
- Economic Impact: India has saved over ₹1.40 lakh crore in foreign exchange since 2014–15 by substituting imported crude oil with domestically produced ethanol.
- Feedstock Sources: Ethanol is produced from sugarcane, maize, and damaged food grains like broken rice.
- Vehicle Compatibility: Most vehicles manufactured in India between 2023 and 2025 are designed to be E20-compliant. Older vehicles may see a 3–7% drop in fuel efficiency.
- Legal Basis: The order was issued under the Essential Commodities Act, 1955.
